WHITEWASH CHARGED IN POLICE HEARING

Old-timers To Meet Varsity

West Texas State University's Buffaloes will get their strongest test of football spring drills at 7:30 p.m. today in Buffalo Bowl when they meet the Alumni in the annual Varsity-Alumni clash.

Bad weather conditions hindered the Buffalo efforts during much of the spring drill period and head coach Joe Kerbel is ready to test his charges against the strong Alumni squad.

The Buffalo Varsity holds a 6-1 edge in the overall series over the Alumni. The lone Alumni victory came in 1964 when the old grads defeated the Varsity, 34-0.

The Varsity exploded for 28 second quarter points to defeat the Alumni, 42-8 last year.

Among the Alumni expected to play this year are such players off the 1969 Buff squad as Gary Conner, Troy Anderson, Eric Roanhaus, Roland Reichardt, Dag Azam, Earl Clardy and Joe Kerbel Jr.

Other Alumni expected to play are Earl Wood, Jimmy Campbell, Jesse Powell, Curley Watters, Jimmy Denny, John David Bryant, Wilton Manley and Terry Funk.

In Saturday's final scrimmage session prior to Thursday's game, the Buffalo Red team, made up of members of the first offensive and defensive team, rolled past the White team, 154-0. That scrimmage was stopped short after seven eight-minute quarters.

Canyon Chief of Police Calvin Costley goes into the front door of the City Hall Annex Monday afternoon for a closed meeting of the city commission. The commission met with two officers fired from the Police Department and several other persons.

Council Backs Police Chief

BY TROY MARTIN

Whitewash charges were hurled Wednesday at the Canyon city commission as an aftermath of closed hearings on the April 2 dismissal of the second and third ranking officers of the city police department.

"This is nothing but whitewash and sweeping it under the rug," declared Oth Miller, attorney for Lt. Gary Harvey and Sgt. Dean Butcher, the two officers who were dismissed.

Miller said he would move immediately to try to secure an open hearing on the case with the right to cross examine sworn witnesses.

"I think it is the people of Canyon who have been wronged," the well known Amarillo attorney continued. "The people ought to know what the police chief is up to."

Miller said he discussed procedure for the hearings with City Attorney Elton Cox on the assumption that the commission would give his clients a fair hearing.

He said that subsequent events have led him to believe that he was in error on this assumption.

Members of the Canyon city commission sat for 10 hours Monday and Tuesday in what may have been the first closed session in the city's history. They emerged Tuesday afternoon to issue a rather bland statement backing Police Chief Calvin Costley in the firing of Harvey and Butcher.

"After much consideration and deliberation concerning the action taken by Chief Calvin Costley relative to the dismissals of Mr. Harvey and Mr. Butcher, the Canyon city commission unanimously agreed that this action was necessary in order to assure complete control and good discipline in the Canyon Police Department," said the statement.

Butcher and Harvey testified Monday before the body. They were called back before the commission Tuesday afternoon and told of the decision.

"I tried to bring out some more points but they said they'd heard all they were going to," said Harvey.

The statement said Harvey and Butcher were given an option as to whether the hearings would be closed or open.

"This is just not the truth," said Harvey. "They voted to hold the meeting closed and then asked us if we had any objections. The city attorney, Elton Cox, had already told us that it would be up to Calvin (Chief Calvin Costley) as to whether the hearings would be open or not."

"That's right," said Butcher, "We were told that Calvin was the only one who had the right to ask for a closed or public

Afro-American Week At WTSU

Big business must help the black man-without-a-chance in the ghetto get a start in the business world for the sake of its own economy as well as that of the black man, a WTSU student said Tuesday night.

Franklin Thomas of Dallas spoke at the kick-off night of Afro-American Week on campus.

Thomas said one way big business can help the black man get a start in business is through education.

He suggested business sponsor a series of seminars in ghetto areas to instruct the black man on how to enter business.

He also suggested that banks which will loan risk money to up-and-coming black businessmen be given a tax break.

"There are two radical groups in this country," he said. "One is the whites. They call for abolishing the entire system. The other is the blacks. They want to sustain the system and infiltrate the system."

Thomas said the words "black power" mean to him a call for equality economically--power through money. To others, he said, it means power through social reaction.

Upon questioning by a member of the audience as to possible repurcussions if the black man is not given a chance economically, Thomas said he feels blacks will react through social means.

But, he said, white business should realize that a stable ghetto also helps

County Says City Paying Too Littl e For Facilities

The City of Canyon is about $12,000 short in paying its part for use of jail and radio facilities operated by Randall County.

Reviewing a cost statement which included the above, Randall County commissioners agreed Monday to ask city commissioners to attend a joint meeting to work out a more equitable pay plan.

The city has no jail or radio facilities for prisoners and police. For several years it has paid $1,800 per year as its share of jail and radio expenses.

"Inflation has hit and their (the city's) part hasn't gone up with it," Commissioner Bill Butler said. "We're paying for increases in salaries and they're not in line at this point with what we've been paying."

Sheriff L.S. "Slim" Johnston said city police used to bring cases to the county justice of the peace. Johnston said "things used to kind of balance out, but now it's got out of line."

An analysis of jail and communications costs presented to the county commissioners indicates that the city of Canyon receives about $10,000 worth of radio services from the county.

The analysis says 26,468 calls were logged in 1969 for the city. Total radio calls logged were just short of 60,000. The analysis estimates cost per call at 35 cents.

Jail facilities furnished for city prisoners are valued at $4,000. The analysis says 204 prisoners were processed for confinement on city charges. A total of 642 prisoners were processed.

The analysis places the value of meals furnished to city prisoners for 1969 at $707.

According to the analysis, the value of services furnished the city by the county total $14,102. Subtracting the $1,800 the city now pays annually, the city is low about $12,000 according to the cost lists.

In other action at Monday's session, county com-

Work To Begin On 87 Median

Construction will begin in the near future to close the center median at the Hunsley Road-U.S. 87 intersection about a mile north of Canyon.

Randall County commissioners gave the go-ahead Monday to the Texas Highway Department to close the median as soon as possible.

Chili Smith, district engineer for the department, said construction could begin soon. He said the project could be completed in about three days.

Smith was authorized April 1 to close the median by the Texas Highway Commission. He said, however, he would wait on the construction until after consulting with the Randall County Commission.

Commissioners passed a resolution asking that the median be closed several months ago.

A representative of the commission, as well as representatives of West Texas State University, the city of Canyon and the Canyon Chamber of Commerce requested in Austin April 1 that the median be closed and that an overpass be constructed over U.S. 87 at the Hunsley Road intersection. They also asked that Hunsley Road be extended east to Washington Street.

The Highway Commission is expected to act on the other requests later this month.

Smith told the county commissioners the highway commission approved funds to close the U.S. 87-Hunsley Road median. He said cost would be about $6,000.

Under questioning by Smith, the county commission confirmed that it wants the medians left open connecting the access road to U.S. 87 at the Hunsley Road intersection.

It also confirmed that it wished traffic on the access roads to remain two-way rather than one-way until an overpass with ramps can

Sixth Grade Will Study Drug Abuse

A "drug abuse" study will begin Monday at Rex Reeves Elementary School as sixth grade students explore the answers to their questions about drugs.

This week students are being surveyed to find out what they already know about drugs and what they yet want to learn about the aspect of taking drugs.

Next week's study will begin Monday with a special film on drugs and during the week all sixth grade students will be involved in a classroom study section on drugs. They will use films, tape recordings and hear lectures by laymen in the field of drugs.

On Thursday, April 23, at 8:45 a.m. all sixth grade students will be involved in a program where Miss Patti Patane of KGNC-television Amarillo will be the guest speaker. The program is open to the public and all sixth grade parents are urged to attend.

The study unit is a cooperative effort among sixth grade instructors at the school.

Troubled People Seek Rural Life

"The intense social problems of our big cities are turning the peoples' eyes back to rural America for the solutions. . .because there are no labor problems, traffic jams, polluted air, LSD, strikes, and ghettoes in rural America," said L. D. Smith, official with the Farm Home Administration state office in Temple.

Smith spoke to agricultural economics students at West Texas State University Tuesday morning on the population growth in rural and metropolitan America.

Smith, a longtime official with the Department of Agriculture agency, told the students that during the 1950s rural society sustained a net loss of around 11½ million people, mostly farm fa-

Price Seeks Helium Funds From Groups

Rep. Bob Price of Pampa was to appear before the Interior Subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee Wednesday in an effort to obtain operating funds for Amarillo's helium research center.

"My appearance before the subcommittee is but a small part of my efforts to obtain funding for the helium research center," Price said. "I have contacted each of the subcommittee members personally and I have also contacted all government agencies who might be in a position to contribute operating funds to maintain the center."

Price said his primary goal has been to obtain funds for the center for three years operation while a phased transfer of the staff and equipment to Killgore Research Center at West Texas State University is accomplished.

"In addition, I am also in the process of contacting private helium producers to seek their assistance in this

Group Cites Hospital Need

Mrs. T. G. Hull, Jr., was named permanent chairman of a hospital study group at an organizational meeting Monday night.

Jerry LaGrone was elected vice chairman and Mrs. Nolan Henson was selected as secretary.

Mrs. Hull told the committee that it is its responsibility to study the community's hospital needs and make recommendations to the board which now operates Neblett Memorial Hospital.

Concensus was that Canyon does need a new hospital plant and that means of obtaining one should be pursued. Speakers with hospital and hospital planning experience will talk to the committee at future meetings.

"We have to have adequate hospital facilities for the university," Virgil Henson pointed out.

"I feel like our hospital (Neblett Memorial) is now adequate but five years from now it will be five years behind if we don't start today," declared Dean House.

Mrs. Hull announced that J.D. Barker has offered a possible site located on the Hereford Highway just south of the Methodist building.

Amended Policy Boosts Nurse Plan

A committe of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System has apparently changed its policy regarding nursing programs and has granted approval for West Texas State University to make application for such a program.

Representatives of WTSU and the medical profession met with the committee last Friday in Dallas to request the policy change.

It has been the coordinating board's policy in the past to allow expansion of state nursing education programs through Texas Woman's University and the University of Texas system.

A WTSU spokesman said the application for a baccalaureate program in nursing for the university will be submitted to the coordinating board as soon as possible.

No date has been set for the coordinating board to act on the WTSU application.

Submission of the application will climax several years work on establishment of a program.

Last Friday, Dr. James P. Cornette, WTSU president, headed the delegation appearing before the committee. Others attending included Mrs. Carrie Scanlan, chairman of the research committee of the Amarillo League for Nursing; Mrs. Eunice King, member of the Health Planning Committee

FROM THE CANYON RIM

by Troy Martin

Canyon city commission probed its police department Monday and Tuesday.

You and I know very little about what was found because the hearings were in closed session.

A closed investigation does not invite, it begs for whitewash charges.

The biggest loser probably was Police Chief Calvin Costley. Costley was under fire for alleged shortcomings in the administration of the police department.

The only way he could possibly have squared himself would have been to have answered charges brought against him in open session. The people with whom Chief Costley must work---the people of Canyon---must have the answers if the chief is to work effectively with them.

I did my best to point this out to Chief Costley and to members of the city commission. The commission based the legality of its closed meeting on the personnel provision of the Texas open meeting statute.

One prominent area attorney told me that the commission probably was legal but unwise in its decision to go into closed meeting.

I think that the people who make up the city commission are honest men with the welfare of Canyon at heart.

But they are also human and my conversations with them on the matter indicated to me that they were on the defensive---prone to defend the city's position rather than to investigate.

Whether I am right in this surmise I will never know because I was not inside the hearing chambers and have no way of knowing what actually went on there.

If the meeting had been open, the proceedings would have been carried by the news media and would have faded from coffee cup conversation almost immediately.

Nothing can be kept a secret that as many as three people know about in spite of sealed minutes. News of this week's hearings will dribble out gradually, be embellished and gosspied for months.

The careers of three officers---Gary Harvey, Dean Butcher and Calvin Costley---could be impaired.

Closed meetings usually indicate to the public that there is something to hide. Often the public is correct in this assumption.

I believe in the people's right to know or I wouldn't be a newspaperman. Obviously you, the reader, want to know what is going on in the community or you wouldn't be reading this newspaper.

It is our job to get the news. When we are thwarted, you are thwarted.

I sympathize with members of the commission and similar boards. These men serve their community with little or no pay.

I've been covering meetings of such groups for more than 20 years. The desire to keep unpleasantness quiet is almost instinctive with them.

Sometimes keeping such things quiet will work to an advantage for a little while. But in the long run, the people who foot the bill--the citizens--have to know.

I have an unquenchable faith in an informed people's ability to run their affairs. I'm too old to change now so I guess I'll always be an implaccable foe of closed meetings.

Our World

By Ann Brown

A few people are apprehensive about the Census, and are reluctant to answer questions for fear of repercussions. But the Census Bureau is one department in America whose files are sacred from the Internal Revenue Service.

During World War II, persons considered dangerous to national security were interned for the duration. Military authorities attempted to ascertain the location of Japanese aliens and Americans of Japanesse descent through the Census Bureau. Not even in the name of national security would the Bureau divulge information gained in its surveys.

Several suits have been filed against the Department of Commerce to elicit "vital" information collected by the Census Bureau. The courts have upheld the Department every time.

Actually, there is not a question on the Census form designed to elicit information that one's friends and neighbors do not already know. Any passerby can count the vent pipes on the roof and determine the number of bathrooms in a house, and tell at a glance if the foundation is a concrete slab or some other type. All the "invasion-of-privacy" scare is just another tempest in a teapot.

The Constitution of the United States requires that a census be taken every ten years. Our Constitution is a marvelous document. The Supreme Court has put our nation on the skids through the judges' leftist "interpretations," but there is nothing wrong with the Constitution as framed by our founding fathers.

If the personnel responsible for our domestic and foreign policies, and our national security, were as cautious in their responsibilities as the average citizen is about the Census, America would not be in such a precarious position.

Americans as a people are kind and generous--much too generous for their own good. Robberies and murders by hitchhikers and apparently-stranded motorists are a common occurrence, yet Americans keep right on picking up hitchhikers and befriending strangers.

Foreigners burn our embassies, kidnap and kill our diplomats, and abuse and imprison our citizens, yet we continue to send them food, money and protective armies.

Americans have nothing to fear from the Census--unless the government falls. And if it does, we are lost anyway. But it is commendable to be cautious.

Every question asked on the 1970 Census has a national purpose. What is good for the nation is good for all of us. The Census will ultimately benefit every citizen.

For example, the government is being pressured to provide more housing. The Census will reveal how much housing is already available. It is hardly fair to tax a landlord to build new houses while his own stands vacant.

Attempts have been made to provide $25,000 homes--at the taxpayer's expense--for people who must have a government subsidy to pay the rent. This Census will tell our government something most of us already know: People who live in $25,000 homes have usually worked long and hard to get them, and they usually lived in shabby apartments or old houses for a long time before they could afford to buy a home.

Why should anyone who cannot afford to pay rent be provided with a new house? Why can he not live in a house he can afford like Americans have always done? Some very fine Americans were born in tents, dugouts and log cabins.

The Bible says let the poor glean; it does not say glean it for them.

The average American is gracious and compassionate, and will do the right thing when he is properly informed. With an army of door-to-door chislers, thieves, and robbers abroad, no prudent person is going to invite an unidentified stranger into his home. And it is always wise to observe a caller before opening the door. But one can be wary without being uncooperative.

The Census is designed to show us the truth. The truth is reality, and facing reality is always profitable.

Car Crash Hurts One

Martha Arlene Crownover, 19, of Plainview was injured about 12:15 p.m. Tuesday when the car she was driving went out of control and crashed head-on into a concrete abutment about five miles north of Canyon on U.S. 87.

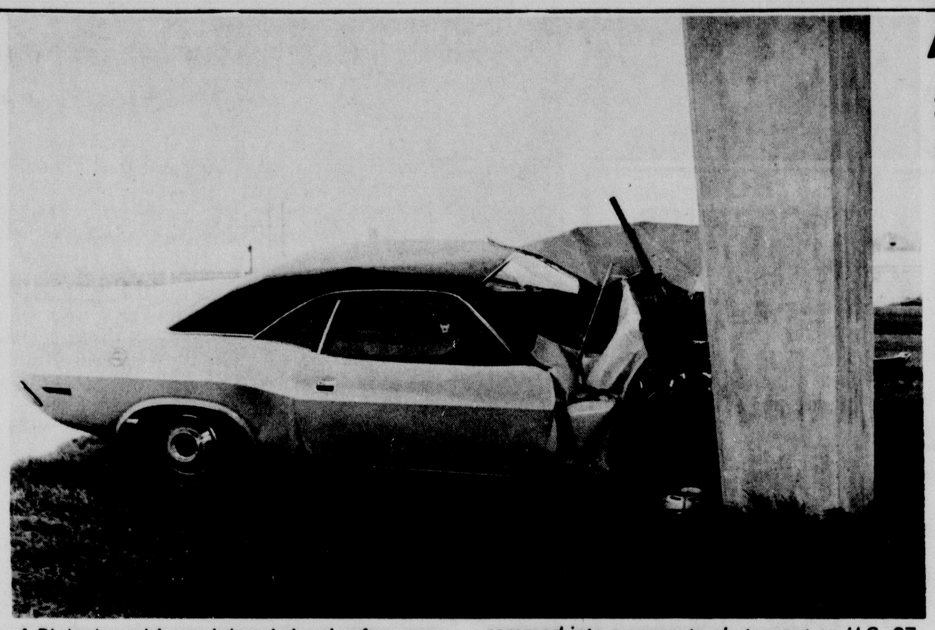
Highway Patrolman Bill Olson said the car left the highway about 150 feet before striking the abutment, which supports an overpass.

No skid marks were visible at the scene of the accident.

Miss Crownover remains in good condition late Wednesday at Neblett Hospital in Canyon.

She was believed to have been alone in the car at the time of the accident.

Olson quoted a witness as saying the car just left the highway and crashed into the pillar.



A Plainview girl was injured shortly after noon Tuesday when the car she was driving rammed into a concrete abutement on U.S. 87 north of Canyon.

Buff Nine Carries 5-Game Win Streak

West Texas State University's baseball team enters this week with a 14-4-1 season record and presently carry a five-game winning streak.

The Buffaloes took four in a row from New Mexico Highlands over the weekend. West Texas halted the visiting Highlands team, 6-5, and 10-3, in Friday games and swept Saturday's doubleheader, 9-8 and 7-4.

The Buffs of coach Bob Sloan are slated to meet Eastern New Mexico University Tuesday in a doubleheader at Portales, N. M., and travel to Abilene Saturday to play Hardin-Simmons twice.

West Texas next plays at home Friday and Saturday, May 1-2, against Hardin-Simmons. A single game is slated Friday and a doubleheader will be played Saturday.

The Buffs welcomed Hal Martin back off the injured list against Highlands, but placed catcher-outfielder James Jasper on the list. Martin broke his leg in a climbing accident at Palo Duro Canyon prior to the season. He collected four hits in eight at-bats.

Jasper was hit on the left wrist by a pitched ball in Friday's opener and sustained a hairline fracture.

Mel Shivers, who has been playing both football and baseball, rejoined the team for Friday's game and collected four hits in six attempts. Both he and Martin are hitting at .500.

Clyde Cash pushed his average to .383 by going eight for 14 in the Highlands series. Kim Henderson is hitting .333 and Mike Mitchell .327.

Mack Rush, 18, a forward for the Sumner High School basketball team in St. Louis, has signed a letter of intent to play at West Texas State University next year.

Rush, 6-6, 185-pounds, is a teammate of Clarence Weaver, 6-8, who signed last week with the Buffaloes.

Rush averaged nine points per game last season along with 12 rebounds. He was honorable mention, All-city and all tournament at the Collingsville, Mo., High School tourney.

Rush will probably start at the guard position at WTSU.

"He has the potential to be one of the top guards in the southwest," Walling said.

The Sumner High School team boasted a 20-3 record last season.

hearing. We were never asked what kind of meeting we wanted."

Harvey said he thinks the commission was more intent on defending its position than making an investigation.

"Calvin knew the decision 30 minutes before we did," said Harvey. "He was at the fire station so someone must have telephoned him from the hearing room."

Butcher said Costley was given preferential treatment during the hearing.

"They heard him after they heard us," the former police sergeant went on. "I wanted a chance to answer any accusations brought against me. They didn't give me a chance."

The two former officers say they were relieved of their jobs after going to City Manager Howard Northcutt with grievances against Costley.

Butcher and Harvey accused the chief of being arrogant and abusive to members of the department.

Costley said he fired the pair because of disloyalty to himself and because they did not do their jobs.

In letters to the city commission requesting a hearing, Butcher and Harvey said they thought they were unjustly dismissed. The letters were the first order of business Monday morning after Dr. J. Manly Bryan was sworn in as mayor.

Commisioner Ken Olson made the motion to go into executive session. Vote to hold a closed hearing was unanimous. City Attorney Cox based the commission's authority to hold the executive session on the personnel provision in the Texas open meeting statute.

Former Mayor Paul Lindsey, Cox and City Clerk George Loudder were allowed to remain during the meetings. Mayor Bryan said he thought Lindsey should be present because events leading to the hearing transpired during his administration.

Loudder was retained to keep minutes on the meeting although Mayor Bryan said the minutes would be sealed and not made public.

City Manager Northcutt was excluded from the hearing except for the time he testified as was Chief Costley. Information leaked that the city manager's handling of the police department incident was also probed.

Testimony of Butcher, Harvey, Northcutt, Costley and several members of the police department who have resigned took up most of Monday afternoon.

Tuesday afternoon was consumed by testimony from personnel currently serving with the department.

missioners heard a plea for a special workmen's compensation insurance policy for Sheriff Johnston.

Johnston was apparently excluded from normal workmen's compensation because of his elective position.

"I can't see where I should be eliminated from the insurance deal," Johnston said. "I can't see where other elected officials take as much a chance as I do. I handle prisoners, transport prisoners, settle family rows.

"I just can't see any comparison with the judges."

Clarence Beckman backed the sheriff in his request.

"Personally, if we're going to carry any at all, we ought to carry this rather than some we are carrying," he said.

Beckman moved, and the commissioners agreed, that a voluntary workmen's compensation policy be taken out on Johnston.

Officials from the American Smelting and Refining Co. did not attend the Monday meeting. Judge Carrol Brown said the company called before the meeting and said an appearance would not be necessary.

He quoted them as saying the Texas Air Control Board had decided it did not need information from the various governmental units in this area.

Originally, ASARCO had asked to appear before the commission to assess the court's feelings about the granting of a variance to the company by the air control board.

In other business, the commission approved the installation of a new copier machine in the courthouse to replece the one now in use.

A representative of Xerox said the new model would be less expensive to maintain.

stabilize a city's or nation's economy as a whole.

Following Thomas' speech, two films were shown on Africa.

About 30 persons attended the Tuesday night session.

Afro-American week officially got underway Sunday when black students put up an art exhibit in the student union building. The exhibit, with many artifacts and books loaned by Stanley Marsh III of Amarillo, will be on display throughout the week.

Wednesday night, Gillespie Wilson, president of the NAACP state-wide, was to speak to the black students. Also scheduled to speak was Roger Scott, a student with the Upward Bound program on campus.

A free dance will be held tonight in the SUB.

Chuck Sutton of El Paso, not a student at WTSU, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the SUB. Following his speech will be a fashion show and talent show. Admission to the fashion and talent show will be $1. About 11 groups are scheduled to perform at the talent show.

A tribal dance will climax the week's activities at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the SUB. An Afro-American Queen will also be crowned at the dance. Following the tribal dance will be the Afro-American Ball. Music is to be provided by the Invisible Soul of Amarillo.

Sponsors of the Afro-American Week activities are Omega Psi Phi fraternity, Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity and Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

milies moving to the large cities. In the last decade, however, the trend has dropped to about 5½ million people. Unfortunately, this group is made up of high school graduates in search of big money in the big cities.

"As a result, 70 per cent of America's people live on 2 per cent of the land," Smith said.

"In the next 30 years," Smith said, "another 100 million people will be born and unless another view is taken of rural America by some people, they will all be living in the overcrowded cities."

Smith said that 10 years ago people would not bother to listen about rural area development, an objective of FHA, but now the leaders of big cities like Dallas are examining the prospects with enthusiasm.

Smith said also that the situation with the high school graduates fleeing the rural communities is a national problem, but that "we (FHA) have more young farmer loans in the Plains area than anywhere else in Texas."

of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission; and Dr. Maurice Dyer, a member of the Potter-Randall Medical Society.

Last January, Dr. Cornette was authorized by the university's board of regents to reopen negotiations with the coordinating board on the establishment of a baccalaureate program for nurses.

In March of 1966, the coordinating board approved establishment of such a program on campus, but later approval was withdrawn.

Soon after, TWU said they would establish a baccalaureate program in nursing in Amarillo. But in 1969, it was learned that TWU had decided not to develop such a branch until all diploma nursing programs offered by Amarillo hospitals were abolished.

Surveys and studies taken in the Panhandle area by various organizations have indicated that a nursing program at WTSU could attract a large enrollment.

Dr. Emmitt Smith, vice president of WTSU for research and development, told regents last January that if such a program were established, nursing students would live in campus dormitories. They would pursue a normal course of study and would work in conjunction with Amarillo College, Amarillo hospitals for medical training and lab facilities.

back the Varsity and Kerbel has been especially pleased with the 6-4 youngster from Highspirr, Pa., this spring. Holwig was redshirted last fall during his sophomore year and has three more years to play.

The 210-pounder has impressed Kerbel with his vast improvement during the spring, especially in his quickness of hands and feet.

In Saturday's scrimmage Holwig passed for 471 yards, hitting 28 of 41 passing attempts.

Senior running back Olan Thompson was so impressive in Saturday's session he caused one professional football scout to not only mention his name in the same breath as Eugene "Mercury" Morris, but to say Thompson exceeded Morris in several departments.

Thompson ripped off 303 yards in 15 carries and scored four touchdowns. Fullback Ramese Falafine had 187 yards and five touchdowns.

Morris established three national collegiate rushing records during his senior year two seasons ago and last year was a star for Miami in the American Football League.

Admission to Thursday's game is $2 for adults and 50 cents for all students, including WTSU students.

Price said since being notified of the closing of the research center, he has assigned several staff members to full-time work on obtaining operating funds for the center.

The Interior Department announced in mid-February it would no longer fund the research center and that the center will be closed June 30.

Since that time, representatives of West Texas State, Amarillo and the area have traveled to Washington to speak with various government representatives about funding.

400 Children Visit Campus For Carnival

Campus organizations entertained some 400 underpriviledged youngsters with a carnival in the Student Union Building at West Texas State University Saturday.

"We had expected only about 175," said Sheila Francis, Dumas, chairman of the campus Human Relations committee.

The youngsters bobbed for apples, ate popcorn and enjoyed the carnival atmosphere which prevailed.

Campus fraternities, sororities and independents cooperated on the project.

However, Robert White of Kappa Alpha Psi said the event had special significance for his fraternity since it came during his organization's Guide Right Week. Fraternity pledges pitched in as a part of their assignment to work with youth.

Church Beyond Missions Goal

The Faith Promise Mission Conference held recently at Grace Baptist Church here was successful, according to Rev. Ray Custer.

Faith Promise missions offerings are used in support of missionaries abroad and a goal was set by the church of $2,500 to open the conference. The conference closed with a promised fiscal year of missions offerings of $5,000.

About 35 out-of-town pastors were involved in the conference sessions and 125 were fed by women of the church on Tuesday.
